

Dear Spelt Member,

Assalam o Alaikum

Last session of Dr. Maliha was well attended and appreciated by the participants. This month Ms. Huma Thawar is coming with her great experience of training and conducting workshops. Teachers who are aspiring to become presenters and presenters who are presenting at SPELT conference are encouraged to attend the session to learn what SPELT wants to see in its presenters. I hope this session will be a great opportunity for teachers and conference presenters.

The Dynamic Presenter

It is commonly noticed in conferences that people leave a session to find another, sometimes within the first 5-10 minutes of its start time. On the other hand, in some sessions people are so mesmerized by presentation and the presenter that there's hardly any space to accommodate participants wanting to join the session 3-5 minutes after start time. In spite of what people may think, this is because

"Great presenters are not born. They are trained"

In this session participants will walk their talk by redefining presentation skills to bring out the effective presenter in themselves through hands on activities. They will also develop an outline of their presentation paying attention to the finer skills of the presentation process. Those presenting at the upcoming SPELT Conference are encouraged to carry their abstract with them.

With the SPELT Conference just round the corner, it is hoped that this session will unleash the dynamic presenter in those attending the session, whether novice or experienced, and help them connect better with their audience.

Huma M Thaver, is a seasoned and resilient educationist with over 20 years of teaching, teacher training, material development and management experience. Beside Masters in Applied Linguistics and Education from Karachi University and a post graduate certification in critical thinking in EFL from Oregon University, she is an M Phil Scholar.
