“HOW TO SUPPORT LEARNING FROM HOME”

In these uncertain times, we are all trying to stay positive and engage in useful professional development activities to be ready for the challenges ahead.

SPELT presents a webinar to guide the parents and teachers how to respond to this situation effectively. The webinar aims to offer suggestions and strategies in order to access free learning resource, develop learners’ creative and thinking skills and engage them in meaningful educational activities.

This webinar is also open for non-members so please share this information widely with your friends and colleagues.

Saima Abedi is a dedicated and resourceful English language teacher. She has multiple master’s degrees, certification from Cambridge, Oregon and Minnesota University, and a professional degree in education. She encourages continuous professional development for teachers and promotes a conducive learning environment for pupils. She has won numerous national and international awards and scholarships for her endeavours. Presently, she is engaged in developing ELT materials, training teachers and presenting her action-research in ELT conferences.

NOTE: The link to join this webinar will be sent to you and also shared on the SPELT facebook page.
