

Dear Spelt Member,

Assalam o Alaikum

November 06, 2019

After attending conferences like SPELT International Conference teachers look for more sessions of the similar kind where they learn something new and meet ELT community. SPELT offers a free Academic session where participants will learn and practice strategies to teach literature. Attend the session with your ELT colleagues. SAVE THE DATE.

Use Effective Strategies to Teach English Literature

Literature is generally considered as one of the most difficult and complicated subjects to teach. If the teachers of English literature do not apply creative methods in their teachings, the classroom teaching may become the elongated monologue. Hence, it is essential to teach literature with the help of creative ideas and activities which would enable learners to participate and enjoy the beauty of literature.

Modern day teachers need to learn the strategies that can enhance the students' critical thinking skills in reading literary texts and create a collaborative teaching environment that makes the learners, agents of change, when equipped with good and thoughtful understanding of literature. This session aims to serve as a guide for English language teachers in planning interesting, effective and suitable literature lessons for their classes. It also intends to assist teachers to guide their students toward making better inferences about different literary texts.
