

FREE ACADEMIC SESSION FOR TEACHERS
EMPOWERING LEARNERS: AI-SUPPORTED STRATEGIES FOR ENGLISH RECEPTIVE SKILLS

The webinar will present key insights, practical classroom implications, and recommendations for integrating AI tools effectively and ethically in English language teaching. It draws on a five-week qualitative study in which 14 Pakistani pre-service teachers used generative AI tools (ChatGPT, Gemini, Copilot) to support self-regulated learning (SRL) in reading and listening. Reflexive thematic analysis revealed increased autonomy, confidence, motivation, and personalised learning, as well as challenges such as AI inaccuracies and over-reliance. The session will be particularly valuable for English teachers seeking to enhance students' reading and listening skills through AI-based strategies. Attendees will gain practical ideas for promoting independent learning, designing AI-supported tasks, and providing adaptive feedback in their own classrooms.

Laiba Noor is an English language teacher at Bahria College Karsaz, Karachi, and a recent BS Linguistics graduate. Her academic work focuses on how AI can support language learners in developing self-regulated learning skills. Passionate about creativity, reflection, and meaningful communication, she views teaching as a way to inspire learners and contribute to a more informed and connected community.*
