35 Years of Empowering
Teachers

In this ever changing world, the need to make learning better and more productive is a teacher's main objective. Understanding the fact that the more ways we teach, the more students we reach. After all, it is here at school that we mould a life to make a better tomorrow. Keeping the above in mind, I felt the need to address the importance of Multiple Intelligences by creating a workshop upon its application in our classrooms

The workshop will address the following areas

- What is Multiple Intelligence
- Defining our own intelligences
- The application of MI in our classrooms
- Stretching a child's dominant intelligences to tap other intelligences
- Incorporating MI into the subjects we teach

Arwa Khuzaima comes with a rich background of education from around the globe. East Africa was the home of her basic education. She has specialized at Early Childhood Education from The Kindergarten Headmistress Association in England. She has acquired her Master Teacher Course certificate from Teachers Development Centre. She has over 26 years of experience in teaching ECE classes both here and abroad at MSB Educational Institute where she began her carrier as a teacher and then headed the Pre-School Department. She is currently working in the position of Public Relations Manager and Master Trainer for Helen O' Grady Academy. She has trained teachers on the British Council interface on their Connecting Classrooms project. She has worked on training teachers from Afghanistan which was a project of the Swedish Government. She is on the Oxford University Press panel of trainers. She has helped teachers adapt to ECE series and ESL Series of Books on that platform. She is an associate trainer with many leading training institutes. She has trained over 8000 teachers both nationally and internationally. She has been part of school audit programs. She has been on television on Breakfast at Dawn with Naveen Naqvi as well as on Health TV on an interview on the education system. Arwa Khuzaima is an honorary Member at the Burhani Blood Bank. She pursues writing as a hobby and maintains a blog. She is currently pursuing her MBA in Educational Leadership from PAF KIETS University.
