

Dear Spelt Member,

Assalam o Alaikum

Participants always enjoy SPELT's free Academic sessions and attend these sessions regularly. This month we have arranged a writing skills session for ELT community. English Language teachers are encouraged to attend and take the baggage of writing activities with them.

TEACH CREATIVE WRITING SKILLS THROUGH ACTIVITIES

. "How should I begin to write?", "How many lines should I write?"

Students ask such questions when they feel reluctant and threatened by a blank piece of paper and a request to write a short essay or a story.

Teachers' role is very important in these situations to support and encourage students to start and write confidently. Good writing teachers have a pool of activities through which they involve students in writing through fun and easy steps. These activities give learners the freedom to imagine, feel and describe and break the monotony of the class by tantalizing the imagination of students.

The participants of this academic session will learn to apply different creative writing activities and get ideas and strategies to make learners confident in writing 'what' and 'how' about the given topic.

Ms. Noreen Khan has a Cambridge University certification 'ICELT' in English Language teaching. She is a teacher by profession and a trainer by passion. She has done her MBA from Quaid e Azam University, Islamabad. She has a vast experience of teaching English from schools to university level students. Currently, she is teaching Business Communication Skills and Functional English courses in one of the prestigious universities.
