35 Years of Empowering
Teachers

Embracing diversity is our challenge in education, not pretending singularity.” Carol Ann Tomlinson.

A basic truth all experienced teachers understand is that every class is a mixed ability classroom. Students don't just learn through different methods they also learn at varied paces. Some have already read ahead, while others might have no idea about the new concept you want to present to them. Some students may have understood the concept but are unable to express their learning in the traditional way. Differentiated instruction is a wonderful way of meeting the divergent needs of a classroom.

During this workshop teachers will:

- outline the three ways to differentiate instruction
- identify the advantages of differentiated learning
- experience and experiment with differentiated teaching methodologies
- evaluate teaching strategies based on Bloom's Taxonomy.

Zehra Gheewala, has over fifteen years of teaching experience. After completing her COTE from Spelt she specialized at Teaching Through the Multiple Intelligences and at working with mixed ability students using Differentiated Instruction. She has conducted workshops on these topics at Spelt and other institutions. She has worked at the Habib Public School as a teacher trainer for English Language Development for the past five years.
