

FREE SESSION FOR ENGLISH TEACHERS

Teaching Reading Effectively

Reading is an important skill which enhances many other skills in the academic process. It augments the learners' vocabulary, language proficiency, self-belief and the general knowledge.

Learners of different age groups face multiple challenges while reading which are connected to their family's educational background, primary schooling, learning and reading disabilities and excessive and unsupervised use of electronic gadgets.

In this Academic session we will discuss the main features which affect learners' reading abilities, problems the learners face while reading and strategies the teachers can deploy to enhance the reading abilities among learners of different age groups.

Mr. Muhammad Yasir Khan is a PhD scholar in Applied Linguistics. He has completed MS in Applied Linguistics and MA English Linguistics. Being a Principal of a reputed chain of schools, he has a vast experience of training and grooming English teachers as well as teachers of other subjects, effectively. He has designed school curriculum and improved various areas of schooling systems. He has also developed English Language Speaking Environment Programme for schools, which have been successfully deployed in various schools of Karachi. He is a lifelong learner and always love to guide, motivate and suggest teachers countrywide. His research interest includes English as a medium of instructions.
