

A Journey of the mind in the classroom: An Interactive trip to Critical Thinking

A classroom is a physiologically and logically complex social and intellectual ecosystem in which all the elements of our thought patterns are linked in a dynamic relationship with one another. Moreover, learning, in this intensively demanding age, should be an active and multidimensional process based on children's expanding curiosity in their world. It is, therefore, a crucial responsibility of a teacher to develop students' horizons, assist them in responding appropriately in their upcoming practical life and prepare them to think critically. In addition, teachers should create a conducive learning environment for children's development of thinking cooperatively.

Learn in this webinar:

- Concepts of Critical Thinking Skills (What, Why and How)
- Activities for enhancing Creative Thinking Skills.
- utilization of activities in both online and physical classes.
- activities for different subjects.
